DUTIES OF THE POSITION

Working under immediate supervision, the major duties of the position include, but are not limited to, the following: Reporting to the Brent Hughes (Assistant Professor – Biology Department), the Graduate Assistant will help support research activities in Hughes' research group at Sonoma State University, specifically, for our funded projects through The Nature Conservancy and California Sea Grant (Q0075-1281-Q007501 - Resilience of Kelp Forests, and Q0119-1281-Q011901). These projects are critical for the state of California as our groups (Hughes and Zippay – co-PI, Sean Place - co-PI) could be the last line of defense against the total collapse of kelp forests along the northern California coast. Timing is critical for these projects as the kelp becomes reproductive in the summer and continuing on until the fall. This project is also providing much needed training of two future SSU Graduate Students, as they prepare for the job market and add local to the body of knowledge of Sonoma's and California's ecosystems.
