DUTIES OF THE POSITION

Reporting to the Brent Hughes (Assistant Professor – Biology Department), the Graduate Assistant will help support research activities in or in support of the Hughes Lab at Sonoma State University, specifically, for our funded project through the The Nature Conservancy (Q0464-1281-Q046401), SJSU/MLML (Q0447-1281-Q044701 & Q0404-1281-Q040401) and NOAA and the Greater Farallones Association (Q0310-1281-Q031001). These projects are critical for the state of California as our could be the last line of defense against the total collapse of kelp forests and eelgrass beds along the northern California coast. Timing is critical for these projects as the kelp and eelgrass becomes reproductive in the summer and continuing on until the fall. This project is also providing much needed training of two future SSU Graduate Students, as they prepare for the job market and add local to the body of knowledge of Sonoma's and California's ecosystems.
